Insurance Fraud and Vehicle Theft are Serious Crimes

Report Your Suspicions to the National Insurance Crime Bureau

You're Being Ripped Off Right Now

You may not realize it, but each and every one of us is being ripped off – 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

Even if we haven't suffered a direct loss, we're all victims of insurance fraud and vehicle theft. That's because people who commit these crimes cause us to pay higher insurance premiums.

These crimes add up to billions of dollars in fraudulent insurance claims annually. The National Insurance Crime Bureau (NICB) and the nation's property/casualty insurers are enlisting your help to stop costly fraud and theft crimes.

Speak Up By Phone, Text or Internet

You can help put criminals where they belong.

If you suspect insurance fraud or vehicle theft crimes, don't be silent. Speak up, and contact the NICB.

The NICB offers three ways you can report your suspicions.

1. Send a text message with the keyword "FRAUD" to TIP411 (847411) on your cell phone or mobile device. Messages can be responded to in real time, creating an instant two-way live "chat" with NICB personnel.
2. Call the NICB's toll-free telephone hotline, 1.800.TEL.NICB (1.800.835.6422), which is staffed Monday through Friday from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. CST.
3. Visit the NICB's Web site, www.nicb.org, then click on the "Speak Up" button on the home page. You will be directed to a form that you can complete and submit online in just minutes.

Whether you call the hotline, send a text message to TIP411 or report your suspicions online, experts review every tip. You can make your report anonymously.
